

Your individual local nature protection project

Naturefund buys forests, meadows and wet lands to preserve habitats for the diversity of species.

Our offer

You can design your own protection project together with Naturefund from a starting cost of 10,000 euros. For example, this can be the purchase and the renaturation of an area in your region or the reforestation of a rare species of tree in a surrounding forest. Here is what we provide:

- Your own local protection project;
- A nature protection campaign, such as a reforestation event;
- Mutual public relations online and offline;
- Interactive tools for your website and online communication;
- Help with internal communication.

Your own habitat protection project

The purchase of natural habitats is one of the most effective ways to preserve a natural paradise. Such a protective measure is an easy idea to communicate that people can quickly identify with. Naturefund can assist you in the choice of which type of habitat you would like to preserve, although we do not predetermine the size, or type of habitat. The important thing is that the project helps nature. The close collaboration with local partners ensures that nature can develop undisturbed in the long term.

Your own reforestation project

Together with you we can plan and arrange a regional reforestation project. Perhaps you own a habitat, or you have contacts with land owners in your region. If not, then Naturefund can help you to find an appropriate area for reforestation. In most cases, we do so by coordinating the necessary arrangements with the nature conservation authority and the district forestry office. It is also possible to organise a reforestation campaign with the local community for the care and monitoring of the growth of the trees for the future.

Advantages

For the realisation of the project, Naturefund will be by your side with their long standing know-how and good contacts. Through close collaboration with you the project can comply with your requests. So you can organise your own local nature protection project. Naturefund will gladly provide project maps and graphical material for you to communicate the project to others. Naturefund can also undertake press releases and public relations via social media for you.
